HIGHER EDUCATION CELL

SEMINAR REPORT

The session starts with Prayer song followed by the chief guest introduction about Mr. A.Krishnaprakash and welcome address by the higher education cell co-ordinator, invite all respected chief guests and students with immense pleasure. The Felicitation address has given by Principal Dr. M. Venkatesan address to the students to follow our Chief guest inputs and to concentrate on career. Then the session proceeded by our guest A.Krishnaprakash about an aspect of Indian universities offer GATE and CAT exam.

On this session he discussed few points GATE exam score obtained is essential for obtaining financial assistance from MHRD or other Government agencies. Candidates can be admitted directly into a course either based on their GATE exam score only or along with their performance in admission test or interview conducted by the department to which they have applied. The admitting institutes can, prescribe a minimum passing percentage of marks in the test/interview. Regarding admission There is no separate counselling for PG like undergraduate admissions in India. Each institute publishes its M.Tech. notification after which candidates must apply individually to each institute. For admissions in most self-financing postgraduate programs, the GATE exam is specified as mandatory. Candidates who qualified GATE exam are also eligible for the post of Junior Research Fellowship in CSIR Laboratories and sponsored projects.

Education in India dates back to its early civilization time where teaching and learning process revolved around the 'Gurukul System'. It was a residential concept wherein the students were educated under the guidance of a "Guru" in different areas of religion, philosophy and science. Historians speculate that these centers had a remarkable resemblance to the European medieval universities that came up much later.

In recruitment basis the rise in the number of engineering graduates in India who wish to get a government job, made public sector units to decide that a GATE exam shall be the primary criteria for initial shortlisting. Post this change, there was a rapid increase in the number of applicants for the GATE exam.

Given the straightforward GATE exam pattern, planned preparation and focus can open a door to unlimited opportunities to study and work with prestigious institutions in the country. Unlike many competitive exams, the syllabus of the GATE is extremely technical and concise and the fact that the scores are valid for 3 years makes it highly aspired by many every year.

Albert Einstein once said, "Everyone's a genius. But if you judge a fish on its ability to climb a tree, it will live its whole life believing that it is stupid." With the difference in ability, aptitude and interest of a student and the societal demands of expertise and specialization, the standardized testing and curriculum does not give much scope for the students to relate to the world of work and wages. Creativity that has nurtured our influences in almost all of life's passions and interests drops dead at standardized tests. The current educational system expects conformity and rewards predictable behaviors, both intellectually and emotionally.

The session was interactive could gain some knowledge on GATE, MAT, CAT, TANCET Exams for the students. Later it is decided to arrange some technical sessions from this guest.

ISTE CHAPTER – GUEST LECTURE –MOTIVATIONAL TALK (SELF ENHANCEMENT (07-03-2017))

The chief guest for the event was Mr.JAYARAM UMASHANKAR,Corporate Trainer & Consultant, Salem .In that session, he gave a special talk to the students about Self Enhancement.

Self-enhancement is a type of motivation that works to make people feel good about themselves and to maintain self-esteem. This motive becomes especially prominent in situations of threat, failure or blows to one's self-esteem. Self-enhancement involves a preference for positive over negative self-views. It is one of the four self-evaluation motives along with self-assessment (the drive for an accurate self-concept), self-verification (the drive for a self-concept congruent with one's identity) and self-improvement (the act of bettering one's self-concept). Self-evaluation motives drive the process of self-regulation, that is, how people control and direct their own actions.

There are a variety of strategies that people can use to enhance their sense of personal worth. For example, they can downplay skills that they lack or they can criticise others to seem better by comparison. These strategies are successful, in that people tend to think of themselves as having more positive qualities and fewer negative qualities than others. Although self-enhancement is seen in people with low self-esteem as well as with high self-esteem, these two groups tend to use different strategies. People who already have high esteem enhance their self-concept directly, by processing new information in a biased way. People with low self-esteem use more indirect strategies, for example by avoiding situations in which their negative qualities will be noticeable ,there are 3 important steps to take to be more fulfilled and creative. They are:

- increase self love
- recognize and silence the self critic
- actively engage in creative expression

That can include keeping a sketchbook, writing, dancing, taking a creative class, or whatever you are inspired to do. Seltzer said, "See what excites you at any given time and go with it." A fun way to start is to go on an adventure to a place you have never been and really take in the surroundings.

Thus he concluded the speech by wishing all the best an motivating all the students.

ISTE CHAPTER – GUEST LECTURE –MOTIVATIONAL TALK (SELF ENHANCEMENT (07-03-2017)

IMPACT ANALYSIS REPORT

In behavioral finance, self-enhancement is a common emotional bias. Also referred to as the self-enhancing bias, it is the tendency for individuals to take all the credit for their successes while giving little or no credit to other individuals or external factors. People may emphasize their positive attributes while at the same time highlighting negatives associated with others. This can impact investors negatively as they become overconfident about their abilities; they will attribute past success to their own skill and reject the role of good luck in those outcomes.

People who have achieved success, in the financial markets or otherwise, have the tendency to attribute much of that success to their hard-work, skills, intelligence or creativity. Luck and other outside influences are largely discounted, lest they diminish the credit due to their own explicit abilities. When a person seeks to self-enhance, they may do so by telling positive stories about themselves and negative stories about others.

self-enhancement is the desire to maintain and cultivate positive feelings of the self. It is the driving force behind the search for self-knowledge, and is thus the focal point of much clinical research. While several researchers suggest that self-enhancement is integral to an individual's well-being, emerging research has shown convincing evidence that self-enhancement can be detrimental to one's mental health, social standing, and physical well-being. The conflicting findings call for analytic measures of the experimental procedures used in these cases to decipher which theories can be withheld.
